

Main Career Goals: Big 3 consulting firms - likes learning from other people wants to be at a large company to have a large starting class to fraternize with as well as be able to build a large network

What major are you: not sure if to keep IB major because they doesn't see herself pursuing that and doesn't see the education furthering her career

How do you see yourself getting to your big 3: did data analytics internship was able to start early and be comfortable interpreting data

With your main goal being a consultant for the big 3 how has gcc helped you: winning a PWC sponsored case competition, with the PWC mentor, put it on resume

2) leadership - treasurer of GCC work with a lot of people - lot of work lot of budgeting present for student government

3) network of so many successful people in GCC

Speak to Makayla Malenta

How do you balance your work life and personal life: use a calendar, used to prioritize school all the time only, and actually needed to learn how to prioritize family and friends, as well her hobbies like going to the gym

First off, I am so excited to meet with you and I must say it could not be a better time bc I have just finished Cameron Wall's thesis and it has so me excited and passionate about figuring out what I want to do in the consulting world and I value your insight so highly.4

Talk about your interest in consulting and finance and how you are torn between them... with that being said...

- 1) When did you first know you were absolutely committed to consulting
- 2) How did you figure out which firms to target
- 3) Can you speak more about your summer associate internship for BCG - specifically im curious about how working internationally has impacted you
 - a) Im very much on the fence about studying abroad
- 4) Also, as part of my deliverables I've also done my behavioral and case interviews which have been invaluable - is it common to reach out to members after onboarding for more practice

\

- 5) I was stalking your links and you have a vast amount of experiences not just in the realm of consulting which I must say is very impressive. (Is there any experience that comes to mind consulting or not that contributed)

Not straightforward

ard - family pressure into consulting -

When did u want to do consulting - got rejected from GCC first try - was when he got into GCC was the moment he knew he wanted to consulting - knowing all the rs
Pwc case comp 2021 - he was onboarding and repping GCC in the case comp
After this - got other offers - but loves strategy and kept coming back

Due diligence projects in consulting

Actually interned in transformation - differences in day to day

- 1) Pressure to perform in internship - mentorship helped him find the interest in the implementation side
- 2) Good thing was that by the end he got strategy building
- 3) He was able to work on his weaknesses
- 4)

Asks 3 questions

What i did do well

What do i need to improve

How do i improve it

Typically asked back in the last week

Managing relationship with office after internship before full time employment -

Doesn't consider the strongest networking skills -

"Don't be like me" haha - goes to events

Be precise with your choice of firm office, location, if you want to exit in private equity

3 categories

1) what do you like

2) what are you good at

3) is it viable

a) money

B) impact

Spring semester

C101 & c102

Behavior networking, case in 2 week

Full blown case practices

I didn't actually know until stalking your linked earlier today that you were a finance scholar. I'd love to talk about that.

- 1) What Are the CDA's (Credit Desk Analysis) that you created and presented in your AgFirst internship
- 1) I noticed that you interned at AgFirst going to work at BoFa for debt advisory and additionally you were a student consultant at Oak ridge, and you're also a finance scholar.
 - a) Have you at all struggled with the balance of going into consulting or finance
- 2) Also with finance scholars applications coming near an end do you have any advice for targeting firms through linked and building relationships with employees at offices you want to work at. I just read Cameron wall's thesis and it is the most important step but I must admit I am so nervous to start.
- 3) How does being in GCC and DSP help you professionally? Currently I am not in a business fraternity but am interested in joining, do you think its worth especially pledging during my first semester in scholars.

Moving around a lot as a kid helped build

How did you decide between IB or consulting - didn't figure it out until march of sophomore year
- until you got in to finance scholars - wanted to have a rigorous college experience - wanted to keep learning something new - dive right into finance through scholars

Was hard core consulting in beg of college

Debt advisory -

How do you approach networking -
Don't put all of your Eggs in one basket
Reach out to alumni in your organizations

What is a hireview- behavioral except you talk into a camera
Superday -

Depending on firm - the more you talk to a first analyst/ associate they don't have much of a say

First semester of scholars was still in - PwC case comp and won