Purpose:

Analysts in Corporate Banking enjoy a stimulating and challenging work environment in which they execute a broad range of transactions and projects. A high degree of responsibility is afforded to those demonstrating initiative and the desire to take on such responsibility. On any given project, Analysts will interact with other departments of the firm such as Debt Capital Markets, Equity Capital Markets, Global Fixed Income and Global Equity Derivatives, Commodities, FX, Transactional Banking Solutions, Risk and Portfolio Management. The breadth of interaction provides knowledge and understanding of both banking and the capital markets.

While significant focus will be put towards client facing activities and deliverables, the role also ensures all activities comply with governing regulations, internal policies and procedures.

What You'll Do

- Evaluate and analyze the financial and strategic needs of corporate clients
- Collect, consolidate, interpret and present company and industry data
- Perform comprehensive financial statement analysis including creating and maintaining financial models
- Support transaction structuring and execution efforts, with increasing levels of responsibility and accountability over time
- Identify and develop business opportunities with clients
- Prepare client presentations, including compiling data and assembling presentation materials
- Develop strong working relationships with other Corporate and Investment Banking employees, product groups and operational teams in the U.S. and in Canada to maximize productivity (CAG, WBO, GRM)
- Participate in deal discussions and formulate recommendations for the appropriate course of action based on analysis, internal credit policies/procedures, and the Bank's risk appetite
- Ensure work product is adhering to U.S. Leveraged Lending Policies and Procedures as well as internal Scotiabank policy

- Structure, analyze, and perform due diligence to facilitate prompt execution of transactions that vary in complexity
- Review loan documentation and communicate pertinent transaction/facility details to relevant stakeholders
- Assist with various ad-hoc tasks including conducting industry reviews, validating/providing internal compliance documentation, and updating internal reports for management
- Participate in regulatory and compliance activity and team administration
- Champion a high-performance environment and contribute to an inclusive work environment

What You'll Bring

- A completed Bachelors Degree in Business, Finance, Math, Health Sciences or Economics
- 1-2 years' work experience in investment or corporate banking, private equity / buy-side, equity research, corporate finance, accounting, engineering or other corporate experience will be considered
- Strong quantitative skills focused on financial analysis, accounting and financial theory
- Strong written and verbal communication skills
- Excellent command of Microsoft Suite, with an emphasis on Excel and PowerPoint
- A high level of attention to detail
- Experience/ability to manage multiple projects simultaneously while maintaining a high standard of work
- The ability to excel under pressure amid demanding deadlines and perform effectively in a team environment
- Demonstrated ability to quickly adapt to new situations
- A high level of energy and a keen desire to learn new concepts
- Team player that is responsive, holds themselves to high standards, and is of the highest integrity
- Self-motivated, eager to learn, takes initiative, and is able to operate with minimal supervision
- An entrepreneurial mindset when it comes to generating ideas and marketing original content
