University of South Carolina
Academic Peer Tutor Role

To whom it may concern,

I am a senior at the University of South Carolina with a 3.9 GPA and internship experience in finance, and I am applying for the Academic Coach/Tutor role.

I played sports throughout high school and understand the level of commitment required to balance academics and athletics. That background has given me a strong appreciation for time management, consistency, and accountability, as well as the academic pressures student-athletes face.

I can support students with course material, study habits, organization, and exam preparation. Through my coursework and professional experience, I can tutor finance classes I have taken and applied during my internships. In the Carolina Fund, I served as a group leader where I taught new members advanced concepts and Excel skills, breaking down complex material into clear, manageable steps, which I find leads to stronger learning outcomes.

While studying abroad in Spain, I also taught English weekly to Spanish-speaking students. That experience reinforced my interest in teaching and adapting explanations to different learning styles.

I value the opportunity to help students build confidence and develop skills that support academic success, and I would welcome the opportunity to contribute in this role.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
Leo Goldberg
